Musulman and Christins Muretages (From the " Caloutto Englishman.") Anorthus case of the marriage of a European girl with a Mussulman has occurred, or stall events was nearly occurring lately, An English. gist in Mysone wanted to marry a Museulman and, having a will of her nwn, insisted on doing so. Some stupid busybody, it appears, brought ber before the Magistrate, who, says the Myc sure paper baying ressoned with the little feel to no purpose, if we are rightly, informed, made the parties cater into a bood that no marriage should take place till the Musichnan became a Christian." Much indignation han been expreswed at the conduct of this young person, who has yielded to the soft blands homen of the con of I-law; and the pirenously la lignant authority above quoted says, that " she and her abandoned trather are described as loss to all sense of shance." Why all this polite language shall be used, however, and all this agony piled up, we really cannot see. Here is a girl who wants to marry in what to English initions, must appear an eccentric way—that is all. Why should she not be allowed to do as she likes, especially as she appears to have the sangleb of Mamma? Where is the barm in it, and who has the Fast business to interfere or raise soy objection Such marriages are not penuliar to India, yet elsowhere they provoks no gorment, save, parhaps, one on the eccentricity of taste displayed hy the fair one in the object of her choice. Anstrolia, where there are thousands of Chinamen. Foglish girls, and very respectable ones in their dias too, such as in London would marry the butchers' or the baker's young than, every now and then link their fates, as 'he sentimental ponny publications have it, with those undeptible Offices, Stables and Godowns we wors of pigtails, and no one ever thinks of raying a word against it And very properly too Beyond the two parties themselves, their parents. and immediate friends, we are quite unable to see that any one of the public is in the least concerned. in the matter. What is the danger apprehended, -w'at is the feez'ul off nee committed, ugainet that such examples will embolden eligible young Museulmans to propose to European young ladios more frequently in future, then they have then in the habit of doing, heretofore ? Granted that W they may do so is not the remody in the girdne ladies own bands or is it more difficult to say "No" to the Indian exquisite than to the British swell? A Mofuesil paper quotes the case of an English lady who married a Muksulmon gentleman; and got on very wolf with him for a long while, till at last he been so restive on the punt of pulygamy, when she very sensibly left him. All women who marry Musculinans cannot but know what may happen to them in this particular; and if, with this in view, they still stick to thole intention, it is reasonable to conclude that some wher consideration has been powerful enough with them, to outweigh that of lagorated feelings and the like. The truth is that cases like that TAOUR new Large HOUSES on the Praye of Miss Croucher, and this subsequent tine have been viewed with a great don't no in uch of having a two storied detached Granite Godown with its contents, or to the extent of 45,000 on mawkigh santiment Depend upon it, no such feeling prevailed in the minds of the girls themorives, or is ever likely to prevait among their pears, and no one would be more astonished thun themselves at its being attributed to them." The probable income of their future busband, and his ability to furnish them with dress and ornaman's, are no doubt the prime considerations in their eyes, and if they have antisfied themselves on these potate, no one would be more enraged than themselves at the breaking off, of what appears to them so advantaguous burgain, In this life. case, the happy swain was said to have an income of a mty rapees a month, and this was no doubt s powerful attraction in the mind of the young lady, who probably had not as many clee. And if any comment is to he made on such alliand a at all. the most sensible appears to us to be that of Punch-on the Croucher case, with which our inte of the Whatfingw completed, where vessels resulers are doubtless familiar. Any how, look nan be ladened and discharged. at these marriages which way you will, as busidess arrangements or as sentimental unions, if the pay ties themselves are estisfied, and do not wish to inconvenience the public by their proceedings, it is exceedingly hard that the public should invist on making a fuse and worry about the transaction, and interfering where there is not a shedow of right to interfere. Nothing is ever said of the pitied; but all the sympathy, tempered, it is true, with wrath, is laveshed on the woman. But we have no doubt that she weighs well the disatvantages of polygamy, and whatever others there may be in the Mussalman metriage state; and woman of the class who marry Mussulmans pre at all likely to be tuened from the error of their ways, by the bowl reject by philanthropiste out of work, on grounds quite unintelligible to thom. These officious persons, therefore, who are so harrified at their mangatiness, may just as well spare their trouble and let them alone. Above all, it is incredible that the Mugistrate should interfere, us one is reported to linee done in the last case. One dies occasionally bear of errutic freats | GRANITE GODOWNS on Marine Lot.
